01

Individually, skim the handout text. Underline all the words and expressions that you understand, think are important and add meaning to the text.

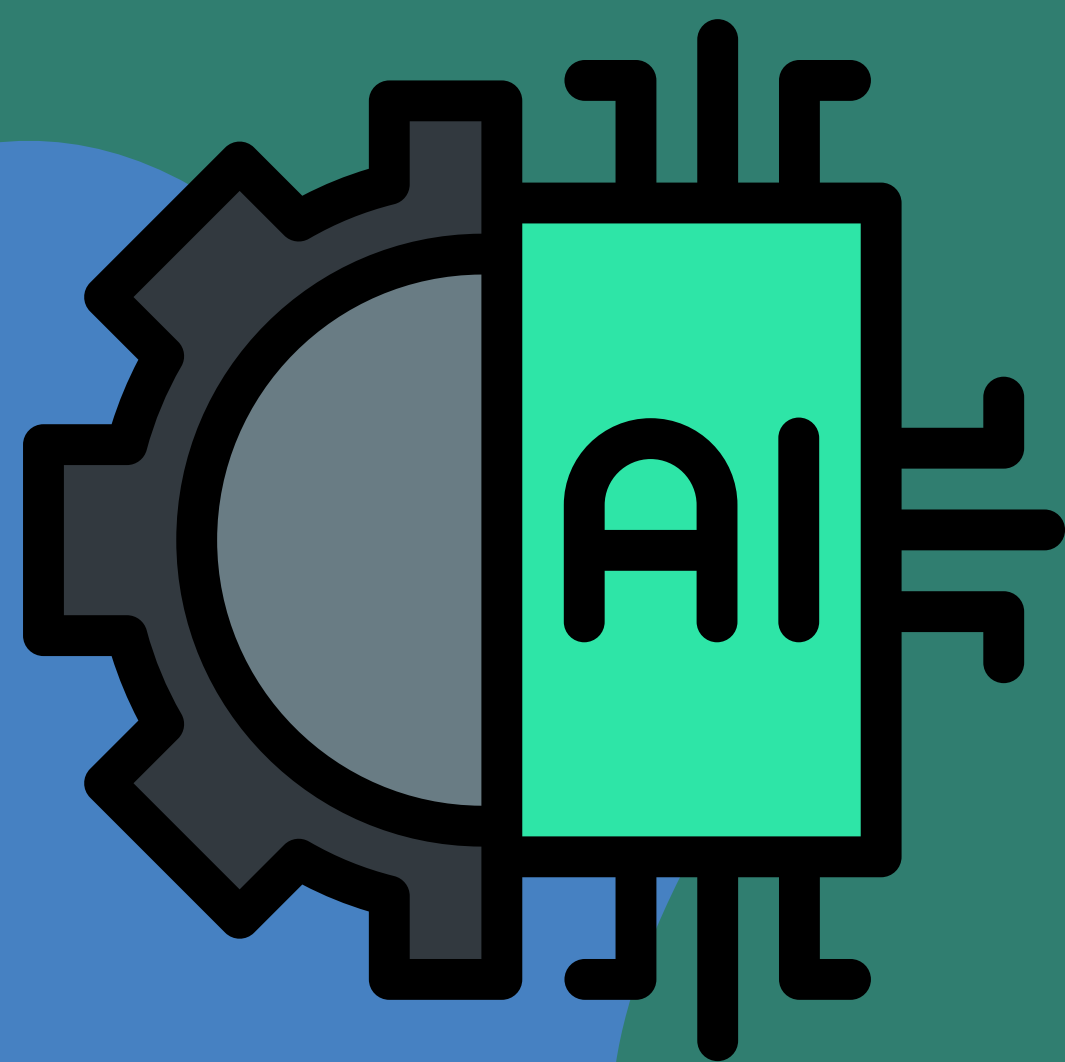

02

In pairs or groups of three talk about what you think the text is about.

03

Choose words and phrases that you don't understand but think are important. Find their meaning using TM. Remember that TM translates words best in context.

04

Now select the words and phrases you want to use in your prompt to get an image that illustrates the text.

05

Write a few lines with the words and phrases you have chosen and create an image in AI. Try several times to get different suggestions.

06

Get the image that goes with the text and compare with your images. If you have time: Prompt again by adding other words and phrases to see how close you can get to the original.

TEXT

This artwork is quite famous. The location for the work is raw and consists mostly of greyish concrete. It includes street murals where graffiti and street art is often made.

This art work shows a young girl in black and white, painted on the right side of a grey wall on the side of a staircase going up to a higher building, maybe a bridge. Her face and chest is white whereas most of the rest of her is black. Her hair and dress seem to be blowing in the wind. She reaches out toward a bright red, heart-shaped balloon floating away. The balloon is tied to a thin string and is the only color in the picture. The balloon is to the left of the girl.

The girl's hand almost touches the string, but not quite, which feels like a missed chance. The heart-shaped balloon could mean love, dreams, or goals that are hard to reach but still visible.

In the artwork to the right of the girl at the top of the mural - just below a kind of a handrail on the stairs - are the words, "There is always hope" written in white, capital letters .

It encourages people to find their own meaning, mixing feelings of sadness with a little bit of optimism.
